

I retired at the end of 2022 after 35 years of ordained ministry (23 in local church ministry and 12 as a hospital chaplain). I have 10 years' experience providing supervision to pastors, chaplains and pastoral care workers.

Something that I love in supervision is that the process of reflecting on our work helps us to grow in understanding of ourselves. When we can do our work with greater self-awareness, we can be more effective in using our resources well, and in serving those that we work amongst.
